LETTER FROM HIM TO CLEVELAND.

Our Troubles Precipitated by the Free Trade Features of the Mo-Rinley Bill.

RICHMOND, VA., July 25, 1823.

of the United States: You are to-day the foremost figure in American politics. No fiving man can rival you in the faith and love of the nasses of the people of the United States. You occupy the position which you fill in their hearts because they believe that under all circumstances and temptations you have preferred truth, right, and the iblic good to your own personal success. on have been a second time nominated and a second time elected to the presilency of this great nation despite the pposition of local bosses and the conilers of political machines because, Ithough multitudes of us were not in acord with one or another of your political octrines, we recognized in you a man itical trickery and falsehood marked im as the one individual of this generation fit to lead us against the hosts that were threatening on the one side to subwest popular rights, and on the other to upheave the foundations of society and

What I wish most respectfully, but most arnesily, to bring to your attention at his critical moment in the affairs of our ountry is that, while you may be right in thributing the financial crisis with which the That I was a superior of the content of the conten

I am writing for no partisan purpose, hen our country is in danger it is time act and speck truth. It is the free-defeatures, and not the high-protection ture of the McKinley law, which have cipitated and aggravated the financial is. Our political leaders have been thing us for space that the specific product of the public and produced a conviction in the popular mind that the conviction of the public and produced as conviction in the popular mind that the distribution of the public and produced as conviction in the popular mind that the distribution of the public and produced the reserve below $100,000,000. leaching us for years that a low tariff or no tariff will, by increasing our trade with 'oreign countries, enable us to largely sugment our exports of food, cotton, manufactures, &c., and thus bring us greatly enhanced wealth and prosperity. The docume of the fres-traders is that by taking the taxes off imports from foreign countries, and thereby enabling them to sell us more goods, we will in a corresponding degree enable them to purchase more goods from us, and will proportionately, or mastill greater degree, augment r in a still greater degree, augment chase has redounded to our injury and to the benefit of Europe. They have bought their goods in Europe, and we have been compelled to send our gold to Europe to pay for them, which accounts in large part for the recent drain upon our supply. This brings me to my main proposition—

This brings me so my main proposition—viz.:

While the Sherman law would by its operations have created a panic at some time the financial crisis with which we are now struggling has been precipitated upon us by the reciprocity treaties and large additions made to the free list under the McKinley law.

The McKinley law was passed in 1890.

For the year ending June 30, 1890, the total importation of free goods into the ecuntry was valued at $296,103,048.

For the year ending June 30, 1893, they had increased by reason of the additions made to the free list by the McKinley law and by reason of the reciprocity treaties to the enormous sum of $516,706,846, an increase of $255,603,792.

FELL OFF.

During the same period, owing to the high tariff imposed upon dutable morchandise, its total fell off from $507,571,764 in 1899 to $420,548,809 in 1893, a decrease of $37,022.895, making a difference of about $100,000,000 against us on the balance of foreign trade.

foreign trade.

In the mean time our total exports have tallen off only $10,000,000, being for the year ending June 30, 1890, $857,828,684, and for the year ending June 30, 1893, $847,- trade theory—that the more we import the more we will export.

In 1890 our imports were $789,810,409; in 1893 our imports were $941,076,128—an increase of $132,000,000 in imports and a decrease of $10,000,000 in exports.

We see then that the enormous increase in our imports is due to the increase of articles admitted free of duty under the McKinley law and the reciprocity treaties.

Under the operation of those laws the balance of trade against us for 1893 was as follows:

Impors for year ending June 30, 1893. 2941,076,128 Exports for year ending June 30, 1893. 847,423,147

.. $ 93,652,981 supported not your claims to the presidency but the claims of the people to have your services in that exalted position.

At a time like this, when the country has been thrown into convulsions of fright by bad legislation, I feel that it is right for me to say to you respectfully what I know to be the sentiment of a very great number of mechanics, manufacturers, and business-men in every walk of life, who to be the sentiment of a very great number of mechanics, manufacturers, and business-men in every walk of life, who form a large and influential body of Democrats without whose votes your election would have been impossible. It was not on the part of the great body of your amporters a desire for free trade that raused the dethronement of the Republican party and your elevation to the chief magnistracy of the republic.

Three elements combined to produce that result: They were opposition to the McKinley bill, and opposition to the McKinley bill, and opposition to the corruption of polities, which of late years has been the conspicuous and shameless means of Republican success.

This gold came out of the United States Treasury and reduced the reserve below the $100,000,000 — which the public at lowe and abroad had been educated to believe was necessary to maintain a parity obtained and precident of this enormous and unprecedented outforce bill, opposition to the McKinley bill, and opposition to the opposition to the McKinley bill, and opposition to the corruption of polities, which of late years has been the conspicuous and shameless means of Republican success.

A MATHEMATICAL DEMONSTRATION.

1. That the McKinley law, by its additions to the free-list and by the operation of the reciprocity freaties, caused the increase in our free imports from $266,103,048 in 1890 to $516,705,840 in 1893.

2. That this increase caused our imports to exceed our exports in 1893 by the sum of $93,652,951 singling to the operations of the an law, it has been hastened and tated upon us at this time by the city treaties and the enermous inof importation of foreign goods duty under the operations of the syllow.

$33,652,931.

3. That the export of $87,000,000 net gold in 1893 was necessary to pay the above balance against us.

4. That the subtraction of this immense amount of gold from the United States amount of gold from the United States are law.

Do we want at this time to admit more goods free and to increase the balance of trade against us and still farther drain our gold supplies? Having experienced the dire effects upon our finances of the increase in the free-list and the reciprocity or free-trade treaties made under the Mc-Kinley law, are we'in a position now to go farther in this direction and to take the duties off a large additional list of raw materials? You must know that such legislation will largely increase our imports and thus add to the balance of trade against us. You may say that such matters right themselves by the universal and unalterable laws of trade. So they will in some manner and at some time if the laws of trade are not interfered with by legislation.

thing goods free of taxes. We have had libre years of trade under the McKinley law and our experience proves the very reverse of what we are taught by the free-traders. Instead of our exports to those countries with which we have free trade increased but little in proportion.

Two classes.

The foreign countries with which we have free trade may be dyided into two representative classes—viz, those with which we have reciprocity treaties, or practically free trade, and those upon whose goods like McKinley taw imposed the highest lard. The latter class may be best representative only two currentses are very limited in their scope.

These with which we have substantial free trade under the McKinley reciprocity treaties are practically free trade under the McKinley for the explosion.

As yet no work has been done on the proposed quarantine station at Southport capturing the department of the free trade the exportation of gold.

Without now admitting or denying the exportation of gold.

Without now admitting or denying the exportation of gold.

Without now admitting or denying the exportance the free trade the free trade the free trade that the interest of the act is of course was the trade of the patient of the Sherman law and the McKinley law together have brought the business of this country to the verge of ruin.

We are like a sick man weakered by starvation and long suffering. We want the interest such that the interest such Saved-World's-Fair Party.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] NEWBERNE, N. C., July 29.—The Wil-ington, Newberne and Norfolk railroad is completed to this city. The last spike was driven by Miss Annie Foy this morning at LUSTRES, the junction of the line, a few rods from the city limits. This road places New-berne and Wilmington within ninetyeight miles of each other and spans the country from the Neuse to the Cape Fear

This road is destined to be an important factor in the development of a fertile and prosperous section of Eastern North Carolina, and its construction is due to the foresight and business sagacity of Thomas A. Meinture, of New York, and associates, who, finding a section abounding in nature's choicest products, which needed but suitable opportunities for reaching the outer world, very promptly embarked in the construction of eighty-eight miles of railway, which crosses the New. White Oak, and Trent rivers, and connects the Cape Fear and Neuse. The section traversed possesses the finest trucking lands in the State. The innumerable fish streams and bodies of water abound in fish, which will now possess a market value, There are virgin forests awaiting the woodman's axe, and being adjacent to the sea its pine groves make it a sanitarium.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE. BPORISMAN'S PARADISE.

It is a sportsman's paradise, and altogether possesses advantages that will, with development, make it one of the most prosperous sections of the State. The people are jubilant over the completion of the road and are warm in their praises of General-Manager Whiting, to whose push and energy the early completion of the road is due.

FOR THE FAIR.

FOR THE FAIR. The second party of visitors from this city to the World's Fair will leave on Monday. They are Messrs. Edward Perry, Jones S. Wahab, Jones M. Spencer, Mrs. E. K. Johnson, and Misses Annie Chadwick, Fannie Holland, Norma Cox, Marie Cox, Jonnie Watvon, and Bettie Wahab. This prity will join the Teachers' Assembly at Raieigh, which will be from all parts of the State, numbering several hundred, and go on the finest special train that has yet gone from the South. Colonel Eugene Harrell, secretary of the Teachers' Assembly, will be with them in charge.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 29.—The boiler of a freight locomotive on the Carolina Central railway exploded in a singular way. The engine was at a speed of ten miles an hour on a down grade, with only 12b pounds of steam on. The engineer and firemen were blown a considerable distance, and yet neither was injured. The engine was badly wrecked, it was only six years old. There is no known cause the country and make way for an inferior | for the explosion.
